Your Touchstone Energy® Partner

Solar Survey

Withlacoochee River Electric Cooperative understands the importance of keeping electric rates affordable and reliable for its members.

In recent years, interest in renewable energy has grown among industries, businesses, and consumers. The curiosity behind this energy source has increased in part due to environmental awareness and stewardship, as well as new regulations in some states that require the increased production of energy from renewable resources. For electric utilities, this interest means ramping up efforts to build more robust renewable energy portfolios. To further our commitment to the community and our environment, Withlacoochee River Electric Cooperative is exploring additional options for renewable energy investments and is seeking your input.

Indicating interest by answering these questions does not commit you to participate in any program should one be implemented. However, we hope you will give us an accurate assessment of your true interest. All answers will be kept confidential and used for survey purposes only.
